Remember Your Creator While You're Enjoying His Creation (Ecclesiastes 12:1—"Remember also your Creator in the days of your youth...")

Summer in the Black Hills of South Dakota is filled with wonder. Towering granite spires, pine-scented trails, shimmering lakes—whether you're hiking Custer State Park, catching a Rapid City Post 22 baseball game, or savoring ice cream in Hill City, one truth remains: this beauty is the work of your Creator, who meets you there in His grace.

Ecclesiastes 12:1 reminds us not only in youth, but in every season of life, to “remember your Creator.” Summer is often treated as a break from everything—including spiritual routines. Church attendance drops, devotions falter, and God can quietly fade into the background of our vacations. But Scripture calls us not to forget, but to remember—especially when we're surrounded by His gifts.

Psalms 19 declares, “The heavens declare the glory of God.” When you're hiking Needles Highway or watching the sun drop behind Black Elk Peak, you're not just witnessing nature—you're seeing creation proclaim its Creator. Martin Luther, in the Small Catechism, confessed this plainly:

“I believe that God has made me and all creatures... richly and daily provides me with all that I need to support this body and life.”

The same God who formed the granite cliffs and pine forests also formed you—and redeemed you through His Son.

Summer activities, especially things like baseball, may seem far removed from the church sanctuary. But they are not outside the reach of your baptismal calling. Lutheran theology calls this vocation—God at work through everyday roles. Whether pitching, coaching, cheering, or traveling, we serve others in Jesus' name. As Colossians 3:17 puts it:

“Whatever you do... do everything in the name of the Lord Jesus.”

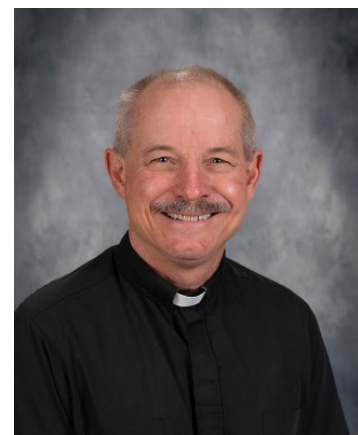

So yes, pray before the game. Thank God for safe travel, for teammates, for opponents. Show grace when the umpire makes a bad call. All of this reflects your Creator.

But don't forget: creation is broken, too. Forest fires burn. Bodies grow tired. Even vacations can disappoint. That's why we look not only to scenic trails, but to Calvary's hill, where Christ, the Creator in flesh, bore our sin and rose again. He redeems not only our souls but all of creation. Because of Him, every hike becomes a hymn of praise, every baseball game becomes stewardship, and every moment of rest becomes a glimpse of eternal peace.

This summer, take your Bible to the cabin. Pray around the campfire. Find an LCMS church wherever you travel. Let summer deepen—not distract—your walk with Christ.

Whether you're watching a game in Spearfish or biking the Mickelson Trail, remember your Creator—because He never forgets you!

Your fellow traveler,
Pastor Schulte

MINISTRY FOCUS: Vacation Bible School

By Becki Aker

Vacation Bible School (VBS) is never dull! Over the past 13 years I have served as VBS Director, we have had the opportunity to turn a classroom into the belly of a whale, use eyeliner on our pastor, use every sheet and blanket I own to turn a classroom into an Israeli tent, and follow “Moses” through the Red Sea (complete with water spray), just to name a few examples!

VBS begins every day with a whole group opening, followed by 20-minute rotations through various stations. Children venture through “Imagination Station,” which historically has involved arts and crafts, but this year is changing to science experiments! Another rotation has them traveling outside to “Fun and Games,” which is active play based around our theme of the day. Students also attend “Bible Adventures” led by the pastors focusing on learning the Bible story of the day. At “Sticky Scripture,” students learn about how the Bible Point of the day applies to their lives and other kids just like them. “Music” involves singing and dancing to the always fun VBS soundtrack. Finally, we can’t forget “Tasty Treats,” because snack and recess are essential parts of any kid’s day! We wrap it up all back together for closing time. Organized chaos is the name of the game!

We are blessed to have Lana Aker work her magic to transform our space into another world, be that Egypt, Under the Sea, Africa, Alaska or Outer Space! It makes it extra special for the kids and the grown-ups who come with them. Bible Adventures and Sticky Scripture are also decorated, so the whole building undergoes a mini-remodel this week!

Every day at VBS, we have the opportunity to share the love of Jesus with 150-180 students. What an amazing mission opportunity! According to our attendance statistics last year, only 43% of the students who attend VBS are members of our congregation. What a chance we have been given to touch the hearts of these children with the love of their Savior!

Vacation Bible School is a perfect example of the amazing things that can happen when we all work together. The congregation supports us with prayer, our wish tree, and financial donations. I so appreciate our youth volunteers, our adult helpers, the kitchen helpers and everyone in between. No matter your age or stage, I promise I can find a job for you! It’s a wild and crazy week which leaves the adults feeling very tired, yet also filled with joy and a satisfaction that this just might be exactly what the Lord has called us to do!

SCHOOL FOCUS: Fifth Grade—Miss Weeks

Fifth Grade Classroom

By Grace Weeks

In fifth grade, we learn the basic subjects as well as Religion and Spanish. I do what I can to keep learning fun and engaging. In my classroom I do flexible seating. I have ball chairs, camping chairs and office wheelie chairs, to name a few of them. Research has found that when students get to choose their own spot, it helps them focus and concentrate more. It works well for my classroom community. Who likes March Madness? Well in my class, we do math projects based on the game scores of the college basketball games. I also do different activities I call “Madness challenges.” We also fill out brackets for special prizes when the tournament is over! Fifth grade has also had the privilege to attend Memory Cafe. The Alzheimer's Association does this event once a month for people suffering from memory loss and their caregivers to come together for fellowship. Every year I have taken my class, and they have enjoyed it. At the end of the year our class has their end of the year trip to Outlaw Ranch where they learn outdoor education.

Get to Know Miss Weeks

By Patrick Fitzgerald

Grace Weeks is our 5th Grade teacher at Zion, and indeed she is a blessing in many ways. She recently finished her 6th year of teaching, and her entire teaching career thus far has been at Zion.

Grace was born and raised in Rapid City and attended Casper College and Montana State Billings. She played basketball for both schools. After college, she returned to Rapid City for her student teaching.

Grace said she wanted to be a teacher ever since she was a young girl.

“I feel God instilled that in me at a very young age,” she said. “When I was at daycare I would play school with the other kids. More like they played school with me as I played the teacher.”

Grace was just getting into the teaching groove her first year when COVID hit.

“Spending [the last two months] of my first-year teaching on Zoom was not fun, but I stuck it out,” she said.

During her second year of teaching at Zion, one of her students got baptized and asked her to be there.

“That was truly an honor,” she said.

Grace regularly invites local and state government officials to come to Zion and speak to her students. Mayor Salamun and then-Lt. Governor Larry Rhoden (before he became governor) are among those officials.

“It is fun to have special guests come in when we are learning about different positions held in office,” she said.

For the past several years, Grace has hosted a summer basketball camp at Zion as a fundraiser for Zion’s Capital Campaign. The turnout for her basketball camps is always impressive.

At camp, she teaches participants to “Play hard and give God the glory.”

“That was my motto in college,” she said. The third annual camp takes place at Zion this month.

In her free time, Grace says she enjoys hiking and being outside. She loves mini golf and bowling. She also likes to draw, and she is at work on a children's book that she hopes to publish soon.

Newly engaged, with a wedding planned for fall 2025, she has shared a few details about her upcoming wedding with her students of various wedding dresses. She even shared a photo of the wedding dress she chose.

“It's been fun to share these moments with them,” she said.

“God has always been first in my life. He has helped me in more ways than I can say. I am blessed by what He continues to do in my life, and I am blessed he brought me to work at Zion,” she said.

Amber Birkmire, who teaches 4th grade at Zion, agreed.

“When Grace first came to Zion, it was apparent within an hour of working together that it was part of God’s plan,” she said.

The two teachers bonded almost immediately over their mutual love of the TV show “Friends.”

“Every day I see her striving to make her classes engaging and exciting for her students,” Amber said. “I get to see the love for her students shine through in everything she plans for them, such as projects and March Madness activities. I’ve seen how intentional she is when deciding reading and spelling groups; and most of all, I’ve seen how she truly makes Christ the center of everything. As a friend, I have appreciated our many, many laughs together and how she’s pointed me back to God and His Word when I neglect to look to Him.”

Faith is never far from Grace’s mind.

“I have always had a heart for kids and teaching them and helping them grow in their faith,” she said. I am so blessed that God gave me the heart for teaching because I couldn't imagine doing anything else.”

NEW MEMBER SPOTLIGHT: The Pourier Family

By Kate Meadows

When Zion Lutheran School was recommended by friends to Amber and Gavin Pourier as a place to send their two children, it didn’t take a lot of convincing. They had wanted a Christian school for their two children–Josiah, 7, and Britain, 5.

They scheduled a tour of Zion, and the further the tour went along, the more they loved the school.

“We knew before we got back out to the parking lot [that we wanted to send our kids here],” said Amber. “We turned right around and went back into the building and registered.”

Decisions around Zion haven’t been hard for the Pouriers, who joined Zion as members last fall.

Both Amber and Gavin grew up Catholic—he in Hot Springs and Rapid City and she in Rapid City where her mom lives and on the big island of Hawaii where her dad lives. The first time they worshiped at Zion, they were surprised at what a different worship experience it was compared to the Catholic worship they were used to.

“But [it’s a] good different,” Amber said.

Gavin attended Lutheran School in Hot Springs. During one of their first visits to Zion, he saw a familiar face–Zion music teacher and former 5th grade teacher Carol Long, who was one of his teachers in Hot Springs years ago.

“It was really cool,” Amber said. “It was like a full-circle moment for him.”

Son Josiah just finished his 1st grade year at Zion. Daughter Britain finished Kindergarten.

Amber is a social worker at the VA and works with the homeless program. She has started doing some private practice work with homeless and at-risk youth in the community, as well.

Gavin owns Extreme Foundation Repair.

The Pouriers say they are excited for Summer Daycare and a practical place to send their kids for the summer.

“We’re super excited that we can be in a place that is so special,” Amber said.

Stewardship Minute

By Kevin Aker

So, the story goes this way...

An old woman hurried to the pharmacy to pick up medication for her sick husband. When she got back to the car, she found her keys locked inside. The woman found an old rusty coat hanger on the ground. She looked at it and said, "I don't know how to use this." She bowed her head and asked God to send her some help. Within five minutes an old motorcycle pulled up, driven by a bearded man who was wearing an old biker skull rag. He got off his cycle and asked if he could help. She said, “Yes, my husband is sick. I've locked my keys in my car. I must get home. Please, can you use this hanger to unlock my car?" He said, "Sure." He walked over to the car, and in less than a minute the car was open. She hugged the man and through tears said, "Thank you, God, for sending me such a very nice man." The man heard her little prayer and replied, "Lady, I am not a nice man. I just got out of prison yesterday; I was in prison for car theft." The woman hugged the man again, sobbing, "Oh, thank you, God! You even sent me a professional!" (author unknown)

The Bible has story after story of God using the people you would least expect. Yet, when it is part of His plan, He will equip us with all the skills we need to be successful. Even on the days when you feel like the biker, God promises to give us spiritual gifts which we can use to help share the love of Jesus with the world. Start small. Find one new way you can serve others and at the same time, serve the Lord.

CONGREGATION MEMBER SPOTLIGHT: Sharon Hilgemeier

By Peggy Hettick

Sharon and her family have called Rapid City home for the past 33 years. Originally from Kokomo, Indiana, Sharon moved with her family to Rapid City after her husband, Tom, completed 30 years of service in the US Air Force.

Sharon met Tom when he was stationed at Bunker Hill Air Force Base, now known as Grissom Air Reserve Base, just north of Kokomo. She was a waitress at a local restaurant at the time. Tom stopped in daily for lunch and before long, the waitress caught his eye. Tom and Sharon were married in June of 1964 at the base chapel at Bunker Hill.

Sharon was raised in the Baptist Church and although Tom didn't disapprove of Sharon remaining a Baptist, he made it clear before they were married that if they had children, the children would be raised as Lutherans. Not wanting to have their family split in their faith, Sharon took instructions to become a Lutheran prior to their wedding.

After seven years at Bunker Hill Air Force Base and a year after Tom was sent to Thailand, the Hilgemeier family was transferred to California. They stayed there for seven years, before moving on to Germany for four years, and back to California for another seven years. Tom finished his Air Force career in England.

The Hilgemeiers chose to move to Rapid City after Tom was discharged from the Air Force. Tom was from Minnesota and wanted to be closer to home and family, but he also wanted to live close to a military base to receive military benefits. Rapid City, with Ellsworth Air Force base, became the place they called home.

Upon moving to Rapid City, the Hilgemeiers joined Zion. It wasn't a difficult decision, Sharon recalled. On their second visit to Zion, a woman named Mary Hennies introduced herself to them. When Mary heard that they were looking for a church home, she reportedly said, "Well, look no further! Zion is the place for you."

A few days later, Sharon received a phone call from a member of Zion, Jan Jungemann, who was on Zion's welcoming committee. Jan asked if the Hilgemeiers had any questions about Zion. Jan and Sharon talked for over an hour. After that phone call, Tom said something to the effect of, "I guess we'll be joining Zion, after two ladies who didn't even know each other just talked for over an hour."

Join Zion they did.

Throughout the years, the Hilgemeiers have volunteered countless hours to Zion. Tom served on the Board of Trustees and as a lay minister for many years. He also worked on the school computers. Under Pastor Duley, both he and Sharon worked tirelessly on the building committee and the capital campaign that raised money for building the church at its present location.

After Sharon retired from the engineering and science think tank, RESPEC, she spent the next 20 years helping to prepare Mission meals in Rapid City. She served on Zion's funeral committee for more than 15 years. She has helped organize multiple Pastor welcoming and going away gatherings and has served as head of finance. She has also long been a member of the LWML (Lutheran Women's Missionary League).

Tom passed away in September 2021 after a long battle with his health. But his memory at Zion will live on. Tom designed and built the church's altar, lectern, pulpit and Baptismal font, all of which are in use at Zion to this day.

Sharon said she and Tom never regretted becoming members at Zion. Their friends at Zion have helped them through some difficult times, as God calls church families to do.

"Zion is where we belong and we have been very happy here," she said.

At 84, Sharon continues to be active at Zion. She also enjoys spending time with her three sons, who all live in Rapid City, and her four grandchildren.

What’s your favorite place on earth? Why?

My favorite place is my hometown of Kranzburg, SD. It is a tiny little town east of Watertown made up of about 160 people. My grandpa grew up there and he raised his kids there and my dad raised us there. It is such a quiet little place where kids can just be kids and run around town together playing “night games” in the summer or building tunnels in giant snow piles in the winter. You don’t have to worry so much about strangers because half the town is related.

My kids playing in Grandpa’s yard.

My dad lives in his parents’ old home and my step dad lives in the home I grew up in. I love taking my kids back. The kids all just walk around town together and go to the old neighborhood school/park and play. I love that I don’t have to worry when my kids are outside playing, because there isn’t much traffic and everyone knows everyone.

One of the best times to go back is for the 4th of July! They have a huge parade and the town is PACKED! You can barely walk from one end of town to the next. Any other 4th of July is just not the same.

If I’m not in the office, there is a good chance this is where you’ll find me!
