March 2026

Gusts and Grace!

Dear Saints of Zion,

If you stepped outside during those two days of record winds, you felt it in your bones. Gusts surpassing 100 miles per hour. Shingles torn loose. Fences flattened. Trampolines tumbling like tumbleweeds. Trees bending in protest. For a moment, it felt as if the very air had turned against us.

Living in Rapid City, we know wind. The Chinooks that warm us unexpectedly. The prairie gusts that sweep down from the hills. But this was different. This was the kind of wind that reminds you how small you are. And perhaps that is not a bad reminder.

Scripture speaks often of wind. In Hebrew, the word ruach means wind, breath, and spirit. The same breath of God that hovered over the waters in Genesis. The same Spirit that brought dry bones to life in Ezekiel. The same rushing wind that filled the house at Pentecost.

Wind can destroy. But wind can also create. Wind can tear down. But wind can also give life.

In March, as winter and spring wrestle with each other in these hills, we stand in between seasons. Lent carries us toward the cross. The earth itself seems restless. Snow one day, sunshine the next. Stillness in the morning, gusts by afternoon. It is a fitting picture of the Christian life.

There are seasons when everything feels steady and predictable. And then there are seasons when the winds howl — illness, uncertainty, conflict, loss, anxiety about the future. We brace ourselves. We board up what we can. We hold onto what is fixed. And here is the promise: our foundation does not move.

When the disciples feared they would perish on the Sea of Galilee, the wind was real. The waves were real. The boat was taking on water. But Christ was in the boat. And at His word, the wind ceased.

The same Lord who commands the wind has bound Himself to you in Baptism. He has placed His Word in your ears and His body and blood upon your tongue. The winds may rage, but they do not reign.

That is what makes us Christians. We do not deny the wind. We do not pretend storms aren't strong. But we confess something stronger.

Christ crucified. Christ risen. Christ for you.

I was in Denver with kids and grandkids on the 100-mph day and had to fly back into Rapid the very next day with the winds still howling fiercely. As we were arriving home, I saw the crumpled mass leaning against the side of our house that used to be our pergola. Wow!!!

When the winds did finally die down, I drove around town. Branches were scattered. Debris lined the streets. But something else caught my eye: neighbors helping neighbors. Tarps being stretched across roofs. Chainsaws shared. Conversations on porches. There was damage, yes. But there was also quiet resilience. The Church is like that.

The storms of life will come — sometimes fierce, sometimes unexpected. Yet Christ builds His Church not on shifting sand but on Himself. And when the winds subside, what remains is faith — sometimes shaken, perhaps, but not uprooted.

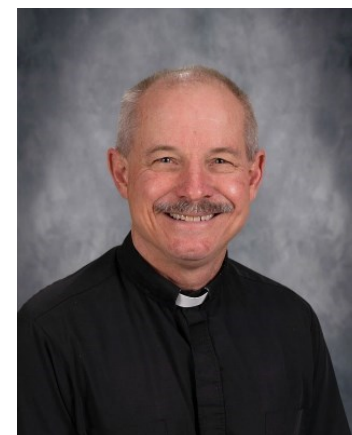

Lent reminds us that the greatest storm fell on Christ. The full fury of sin, death, and the devil bore down upon Him at the cross. And there, what looked like destruction became salvation. What looked like loss became victory. What looked like the end became the beginning. The winds do not get the final word. Jesus does.

So as March carries us forward — unpredictable skies, howling gusts, and all — let it also remind us of the Spirit who blows where He wills. He sustains faith. He steadies hearts. He anchors us to the promises of God.

If the winds return, we will close the doors, secure what we can, and pray. And we will remember: our life is hidden with Christ in God. No storm can uproot what He has planted.

May the peace of Christ steady you. May His Word anchor you. May His Spirit breathe courage into you.

In Christ,
Pastor Schulte

MINISTRY FOCUS: Board of Lay Ministry

By Patrick Fitzgerald

The Lay Ministers strive to care for the Pastors and support them in their proclamation of the Good News. The board also looks out for the spiritual, emotional and physical health and welfare of our congregation members. They contact, visit, support and pray with Zion members, especially those who have specific needs.

The board encourages the professional growth of the pastoral staff through conferences, conventions, and continuing education. When appropriate the board also formulates job descriptions for the pastors and conducts recurring evaluations.

Importantly, a lay minister prays with the clergy before each worship service. Board members assist with worship services by helping to serve communion, reading from scripture and ensuring that elements of the worship service are running smoothly. Board members strive to cultivate peace, love, and harmony within the congregation.

This year the Board of Lay Ministry is restructuring its monthly meetings. According to Board President John Burke, the board will concentrate more on Bible study and being in the Word, with pastor-led Bible studies. There will be more emphasis placed on the Spiritual growth of the Lay Ministers through opening devotions and preplanned Biblical-based learning. The Lay Ministers will continue to support the pastors through regular prayers as well as ensuring the Word of God is preached and taught. The Lay Ministers will continue to stay in touch with the members of the congregation and participate in regular prayer, Bible study and worship.

The Board of Lay Ministry also leads the Zion's Men's Ministry, which includes events such as BBQs and the Men's Prayer Breakfast, which meets on Tuesdays at 6:30am. Lay Ministers also support women's ministry at Zion by helping with events, such as last year's Mother Daughter Tea.

Current lay ministers are John Burke (President), Dr. Ken Anderson, Vern DeCastro, Quinten Glass, Mike Graf, Jerry Jessen, Bill Kudera, Tim Malone, Tom Martin, Chris Powers, Thor Stadum, David Withee and Patrick Fitzgerald. Ex-Officio members are Pastor Bryan Meadows, Pastor Gary Schulte and Congregational President Todd Holen.

Zion is always looking for men to encourage spiritual growth among the congregation and ministry staff and assist in elements of worship. To learn more, please reach out to any of our lay ministers.

STEWARDSHIP MINUTE

By Ken Anderson

When we first started the capital campaign, our Ministry Consultant, Pastor Phil Andreasen shared that when a church is on a capital campaign to build, the church will grow spiritually before it grows physically.

We are so blessed as a family of Zion as we have many ways to grow Spiritually. Things like worshipping, being involved in Bible Studies, being in a Small Group, reading the Bible, praying and others.

There is a Barna Research Study on May 2, 2019, on reading The Bible.

The Barna Study defines a "Bible User" as an "individual who reads, listens to or prays with the Bible on their own at least 3-4 times a year, outside of a church service or church event." 3-4 times a year is not a lot to be considered a Bible user in this study.

To look at the positive side, 61% of the "Bible users" said that each time they read scripture they realize their need for God. 50% of these people said that reading the Bible increases their desire to know God.

Many people would say that we don't really need this study to know that God grows us spiritually when we are in His Word. We experience this in our own lives.

The numbers do show how reading the Bible only four times a year gives people a greater sense of connection to God and reveals our need for Him. Imagine what God does through His Word when we read it regular! Just read God's promise in James 4:8 "Draw near to God and He will draw near to you..."

This study helps us realize that reading the Bible is one significant way God grows us spiritually.

May The Lord bless you as you read His Word.

DISCIPLESHIP FOCUS: LERT Mercy in Action

By Azure Summers

Did you know that the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod (LCMS) has a Disaster Response ministry? That ministry, titled “Mercy in Action”, includes Lutheran Early Response Team (LERT), a program designed to help train congregation volunteers to respond when tragedy strikes. Volunteers serve people near and far who are suffering from loss in the wake of fires, tornadoes, floods, earthquakes, and hurricanes. LERT provides an opportunity for the church to be visibly active, reaching out in mercy, to serve the hurting and disaster-displaced with physical and spiritual care.

Here at Zion the LERT program is in its early formation. In late 2025, Zion member Jeff Summers accepted the invitation to be the South Dakota District Disaster Relief Coordinator (DDRC). In this role, Jeff will provide training for LERT volunteers across South Dakota, communicate and coordinate with other response coordinators, pastors and congregations to identify disaster relief needs. He will coordinate South Dakota LERT volunteers and equipment, deploying them to locations in need. When deployed, he will perform on-site assessments of damage and needs at work locations.

Having been a public servant for over 20 years, as an EMT, rural and wildland firefighter, chainsaw instructor, and then law enforcement officer, Jeff already had a wealth of experience responding to natural disasters. LERT presented an opportunity for him to use his gifts and experience in a place that his family could join him.

“When my wife and I heard about this ministry within our LCMS family, we became very excited. I knew that God had led me to this moment to help others with the gifts and experiences I have been blessed to have. We also realized this could be a great family activity for us—to be able to witness to people suffering from disasters, and fellowship with other LCMS members,” Jeff said.

Getting Involved

The first step in becoming a volunteer with LERT is completing the Basic Training Course. In this course, volunteers 14 years of age or older learn ways of talking to victims of disaster. They learn about incident command structure—primarily LERT volunteers are deployed in teams initiated by their DDRC; deployment logistics such as food and lodging; basic equipment use; and safety practices. After completion of this course, volunteers can begin serving in general ways, or they can pursue specialized training such as chainsaw operator or site assessor.

Some common physical tasks include tree removal and chainsaw work; cleaning up brush, branches and yard debris; flood mitigation through mucking and tearing out damage and debris; and home reconstruction.

Less physical tasks, which are equally important, include visitation and sharing the love of Christ with adults and children affected by the disaster; food preparation and distribution to displaced residents and relief workers; volunteer coordination; and site assessments.

Jeff stressed that serving with LERT can be not only a blessing to those suffering the effects of the disaster, but also to the volunteers whose hearts are impacted.

“In 2024 my family and I went on our first deployment after a tornado struck the Omaha NE area—where Jeff’s sister and family reside. We prayed with people and spent time listening to them, removed debris, cut trees off homes, vehicles and property. We also delivered food and water. It was such an amazing experience to work alongside other LCMS Christians. This blessing of an experience—being able to help others see the love of Christ through the work we could do—was truly one of the best memories for our family. Our God is truly an awesome God.”

If you have interest in becoming a volunteer with LERT, a Basic Training Course is planned for March 21 at Zion. Questions may be directed to Jeff Summers, 605-219-2860.

SCHOOL FOCUS: Kindergarten with Mrs. Kettering

By Megan Kettering

In Kindergarten at Zion, we teach the building blocks to being a successful student, friend, and individual. Our academics are integrated with our faith and a lot of play. Reading lessons include stories that build letter recognition, sounds, and comprehension. We show what we know in our reading and writing groups. In math, we focus on a lot of counting, number sense, patterns, addition, and subtraction. Our Bible stories focus on God's promises and how much He loves us. We put God's modeled love into practice daily as we learn how to work together, take turns, show respect, and be in a community together.

Meet Mrs. Megan Kettering

By Ann Solinsky

Megan Kettering is one of Zion's wonderful kindergarten teachers—and one of several staff members who once walked these very halls as a student at Zion Lutheran School and Church. Some of Megan's favorite childhood memories center around music. She fondly remembers singing "Jesus songs" with Mrs. Withee, participating in Christmas programs and spring musicals, learning to play the recorder and xylophone, and enjoying singing breaks with her fourth-grade teacher, Mrs. Hoefer.

In a special full-circle moment, Mrs. Solinsky was Megan's fifth-grade teacher—and now they have the joy of serving together as colleagues. Zion played a significant role in Megan's faith journey. Her years at Zion, followed by confirmation, gave her a strong foundation in her beliefs and helped her remain steadfast in her faith, even when peers tried to pull her in other directions.

Teaching wasn't always part of Megan's plan, but God had different plans for her. During her junior year of college, she felt called to pursue education. Today, she feels honored and blessed to give a little piece of her heart—and a big piece of Jesus—to every child who walks through her classroom door.

Megan met her husband, Erik, at a high school youth group event she was invited to attend. They have been married for eleven years and are the proud parents of two children, Emmett (9) and Ellen (7), who both attend Zion. Megan loves having her children at the same school where she teaches. She knows they are surrounded by people who care for them and share Jesus with them daily—and she admits it's nice to be able to check in and see how their day is going. She was also blessed with the unique opportunity to teach her own daughter in kindergarten.

Life in a kindergarten classroom is never dull—there is definitely no "quiet button!" Each day is filled with learning, exploring, creating, and lots of love. Megan hopes that when her students leave her classroom each day, they know how deeply they are cared for and how much God loves them.

When asked what her kindergarteners might say her "superpower" is, Megan said they would probably call her magical. She has performed several "tricks" during lessons that leave her students amazed!

If you're ever in need of a smile and a little kindergarten joy, Megan invites you to stop by and visit her classroom.

Mrs. Kettering's Kindergarten Class

If you could ask God anything, what would you ask Him?

Saraya: I would ask for a stuffed animal.

Slade: I would ask for a pet shark.

Jordy: I'd ask for Him to make everyone not sick.

Carter: When will there be lots of joy?

Swayze: How are You so perfect?

Goldie: What was it like to save the world?

Ryder: What did it feel like to die on the cross?

Aurelia: What do you look like?

Konrad: Will You love me forever?

Gracelynn: I like when You shine Your light.

Lydia: Can you please give me a pet snake?

Madelyn: Will you make me wise, just like You?

Eloise: Where do You get Your powers?

Makayla: Can I have more toys?

Tobias: Will I ever have a lizard?

Lent is a special time to slow down and think about God and His love for us. We encourage you to stay curious by asking questions, being kind, and learning more about God with each other.

Love, Mrs. Kettering's Kindergarten Class

From the Principal's Office... Kindergarten Screening

If you know of parents who might be interested in having their child screened and possibly enrolling for the 2026-2027 school year, please have them contact Mrs. Solinsky or Lindsay Reule. We offer small class size with a maximum of 15 students in each kindergarten class. Preschoolers will be screened on Friday, March 13th. Please call to make an appointment, 342-5749.

Parents of students currently in kindergarten, please note there will be no kindergarten classes on March 13th. Preschool and grades 1 through 5 will be in session as usual on March 13th.

Tuition rates for community members are $6100 for the first child and $5500 for each additional child. For active Zion members it will be $3155 for the first child and $2820 for each additional child. Book fees are $185 for the first child and $160 for each additional child.

Lutheran Schools' Week

Zion Lutheran School and Preschool joyfully celebrated Lutheran Schools' Week during the first week of February with a full schedule of faith-filled and fun activities for students, families, and staff.

The week began with our school students lifting their voices in song at Sunday worship services, helping kick off the celebration in a meaningful way. Throughout the week, students enjoyed festive dress-up days and a special presentation from the Black Hills Raptors.

Wednesday morning welcomed parents, grandparents, and special family friends for "Donuts with Grown-Ups." This was followed by a special chapel led by Zion's leadership team. It was a wonderful opportunity to gather together in worship and thanksgiving for Christian education.

Students also enjoyed several exciting field trips during the week, including bowling at Robbinsdale Lanes, swimming at Evans Plunge, a movie at the historic Elks Theatre, and a visit to Journey Museum. These outings provided both fun and learning beyond the classroom.

One of the biggest highlights of the week was our "Christ's Way: Continuing in Faith" fundraiser, Tat-a-Teacher! Students and congregation members purchased temporary tattoos for Zion teachers and staff to wear throughout the school day on Thursday. It was a creative and lighthearted way to support our school — and the teachers, pastors and support staff were great sports!

We wrapped up the celebration with a fellowship fundraiser Bingo Night, bringing our school and church families together for an evening of community and fun.

Thank you to everyone who prays for Zion Lutheran School and Preschool. We are truly blessed by the partnership of our congregation and community as we continue to nurture students in faith and learning.

NEW MEMBER SPOTLIGHT: Melody Monson

By Phyllis Martens

The first time she attended church at Zion, Melody Monson was hardly a stranger. A couple of ladies invited her to sit with them. They remembered her name.

Perhaps that's what kept Melody coming back to the church on the hill – it's a welcoming, lively place.

Melody joined Zion in December 2025. She said her favorite things about Zion are the people and how their faith shines. She said she loves being surrounded by so many children at Zion, and there is always a takeaway from the weekend's sermon.

Melody grew up in North Dakota, as did her husband, Ron. The two celebrated 53 years of marriage last August 2025. Ron grew up in Grand Forks and Melody grew up on her family's farm in Hettinger. One of Melody's favorite pastimes was walking the pastures among the Hereford cattle her family raised.

Ron, by contrast, grew up in the city. He left home to join the Navy. When he left his tour in the service, he went to the business college in Grand Forks, the very college Melody was attending. They met at college and later married in Grand Forks. They lived in various areas before moving to Rapid City in July of 2021.

Melody grew up with 7 siblings: 4 brothers and 3 sisters. Two of her brothers are deceased. Her oldest and youngest brothers as well as one of her sisters live in Bismark. One of Melody's sisters lives in Apple Valley, MN, and the other in Sturgis. Living within 30 minutes of her sister is exciting, she said.

Ron grew up with 2 younger brothers; one is deceased and the other lives in Virginia.

Ron and Melody have two children, a son and a daughter, who both live in Grand Forks, ND. Their daughter works as an office manager at a manufacturing business. She has 7 children as part of a blended family – 6 sons and 1 daughter.

"Not much gets by my daughter with all those boys," Melody said, laughing.

Their son has 3 boys and one daughter. He works at a pest control company.

Ron is a retired banker, having worked 33 years in the banking industry. Melody worked a variety of jobs, including as a switchboard operator with Northwest Bell and for collection agencies. Her favorite job was the 10 years she provided daycare in her home in Grand Forks, she said. Now Melody spends her time taking care of her home and her husband.

After moving to Rapid City, Melody visited various churches in the area. She found herself frequenting the services at Zion. Now, she continues to sit with those same ladies who first invited her to sit with them. If she misses a Sunday, they check in with her.

Women's Ministry

WICKS (Widows In Christ Know Salvation)

Join us for our next fellowship on Sunday, March 15, at 12:30 PM, at 1200 Range View Circle in the community room. Bring a salad, main dish or dessert to share and your own drink.

LWML Meeting

LUTHERAN WOMEN IN MISSION (LWML) will meet at Zion on Saturday, March 14, at 10:00 a.m. We will have devotions, a Bible study on "What the LCMS Teaches" by Pastor Schulte. We will invite the confirmation prayer partners to join us in making puppets for the Puppet Place at the State Fair. Refreshments will be served. All ladies of the congregation are invited to join us (from confirmed thru the 90s).

The ingathering will be items for the Black Hills Pregnancy Center: clothes, bottles, diapers, wipes, toys, small toys, blankets, bibs, hats, baby wash, lotion, baby powder, diaper rash cream, comb/brush, toothbrush/paste, towel, wash cloth, shoes, milk storage bags, disposable and reusable nursing pads, lanolin ointment, crib sheets, pacifier, pacifier clip, burp cloths, sippy cups, plates/bowls/utensils, books. Cash donations are also accepted.

CONGREGATION MEMBER SPOTLIGHT: Curt & Marsha Green

By Ann Solinsky

Curt and Marsha Green have been worshipping, serving, volunteering, and building community at Zion Church, School, and Preschool for many years—dating back to when their children, Corry and Serena, attended the school at its former location on 5th and Quincy.

Marsha grew up in the countryside near Delmont, South Dakota, where she attended Zion Lutheran Church. Curt, also known as Al, is originally from Rapid City. Named Albert after his father, he has always gone by his middle name, Curt. This year, Curt and Marsha will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on April 30—a wonderful milestone. Introduced by a cousin, they quickly discovered they shared many of the same interests. Over the years, they have learned the importance of keeping God at the center of their relationship and practicing patience with one another.

Marsha has served Zion in many roles throughout the years. She began working in the daycare alongside Jackie Peterson and Lianne Geidel when it was still housed in a small building separate from the school. She fondly remembers those days as full of laughter and joy. Later, after Zion moved to its current location, Marsha worked as a preschool aide with Mrs. Genzlinger. She especially loved watching children grow and witnessing those “lightbulb moments” when something finally clicked. The preschool Christmas programs were always a highlight.

Marsha also served for many years as the summer daycare director. Summers were filled with fun—swimming, planning activities, and taking field trips to local Black Hills attractions. Although she retired from working with students in 2017, it wasn’t long before she felt called back. She began volunteering in the first-grade classroom, and after the passing of her dear friend Lianne Geidel, Marsha stepped into the role of first-grade aide in her memory. Today, she continues to volunteer on Mondays and Fridays, helping in the classroom, reading with students, and playing games with them.

Curt has also left his mark on Zion in a very tangible way. Over the years, he has designed and built numerous shelves, steps, and benches that can be found throughout the building. His craftsmanship continues today, as he enjoys woodworking and creating furniture.

Curt and Marsha both want new and longtime members alike to know that Zion is a special place with a strong, caring school community. They are excited about the future and hope the church will continue to support its students and school. They also expressed deep appreciation for the cancer support group that surrounded them with care during Marsha’s diagnosis, treatment, and recovery.

When asked about a favorite church potluck dish, they laughed and admitted it’s nearly impossible to choose—there are simply too many delicious casseroles to try! One thing you might not know about Marsha is her love of horses. She has enjoyed them for most of her life, especially riding trails in the Black Hills. Today, Curt and Marsha still enjoy spending time in the hills—hiking, four-wheeling, and taking in God’s beauty. They also treasure quieter moments together: reading, doing puzzles, and spending time with their dog, Puddles.

Random Question with...Walter (BOF) & Casey Raby (BOE)

What is something small you do to make a big difference?

We've found that one of the smallest things with the biggest impact is simply sharing a word of encouragement. It is easy to think something kind about someone and keep it to ourselves, so we make a conscious effort to voice that support or send it in a quick text. We try to bring this into our daily work—whether it's offering an affirming word to a client or encouraging a coworker while leading or managing a project. This habit is just as important in our family life, where we strive to stay connected with our seven sons and enjoy our two grandchildren. We've realized that these simple moments of affirmation are often what stay with people the most and can truly change the trajectory of their day. For us, it's not about grand gestures, but about the small, daily practice of making sure the people in our lives know they are valued.
